

Your feedback is very important. Thank you for completing all or as much as you felt comfortable.

This was difficult

I've done as much as I can

Great

Please show on the thermometer how you are feeling after completing this.

Anything else you'd like the organization to know? (Feel free to write, doodle, make a poem etc.)

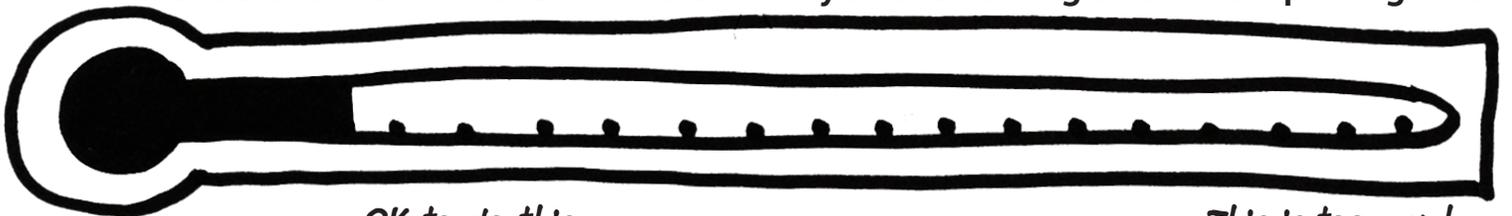

Be Heard

Thinking about your path...

This anonymous tool was co-created with youth to look at services in London Middlesex.

Please share your experience.

OK to do this

This is too much

When you're answering the questions inside you might need a mental break. You could fill this out over a few days or talk with someone about it. Do what works best for you!

1. Write | Draw | Map it

What was it like getting started? (For example: was it a straight path, were there closed doors along the way, were services connected or not? Who was involved, who wasn't but should have been?)

2. Getting started with a youth service...

Could you find information in the way you wanted? (e.g. online, pamphlet, from a friend etc)

At that time, was it clear how the services would support you?

When possible, were you part of decisions made about the program/s you'd be involved in?

Were you on a wait list?

Getting to the agency...

Were the services on a bus route?

Were the services reasonable to get to for you/your family?

Were the hours of your services convenient for you?

What was it like ending your involvement? (Or what do you imagine it will be like.)

4. About program spaces... Please fill in your opinion.

The spaces were inviting.

People were friendly.

While waiting there were things to make me comfortable, pass the time.

Programs tried to help me gain independence.

People talked to me in ways that I understood.

There was a connection with other agencies to meet my needs.

People worked together so I didn't have to repeat my story.

How would you design a system that works for youth and families? (For example how the system should look? What should the path to (and out of) getting help look like?)
